The 3.7-liter engine under the hood of the Mustang most definitely has a lot more kick than the old 4.0 Cologne V6, but don't make the mistake of thinking that this is a 9/10ths GT.

The V6 is down...

2012 Ford Mustang V6

I absolutely love my car.
From inside, to outside,
to under the hood it is the perfect car for me.

When I was 16 years old I wanted a sports car but wasn't allowed to have a v8 engine so I

I don't know where you
are getting your engine, but a Coyote is $8,099.00 and the Control Pack is $1,799.00 (Ford Racing) so you are looking at around $10K plus

install. KBB and NADA say a V6 2012 is worth
about $20K so you
would be spending half of the value of the car to make it into a V8 with no hope of return on investment.
