Consumer Behavior: Building Marketing Strategy builds on theory to provide students with a usable, strategic understanding of consumer behavior that acknowledges recent changes in mobile & social media marketing, ethnic subcultures, internal and external influences, global marketing, and other emerging trends.

Consumer Behavior: Building Marketing Strategy provides students with a usable, strategic understanding of consumer behavior. The authors believe that knowledge of the factors that influence consumer behavior can, with practice, be used to develop sound marketing strategy. As a consequence, the text integrates theory, strategy-based examples, and application.

"Marketing attempts to influence the way consumers behave. These attempts have implications for the organizations making them, the consumers they are trying to influence, and the society in which these attempts occur. We are all consumers, and we are all members of society, so consumer behavior, and attempts to influence it, is critical to all of us. This text is designed to provide an understanding of consumer behavior. This understanding can make us better consumers, better marketers, and better citizens"--

This work shows how the various elements of consumer analysis fit together in an integrated framework, called the Wheel of Consumer Analysis. Psychological, social and behavioural theories are shown as useful for understanding consumers and developing more effective marketing strategies. The aim is to enable students to develop skills in analyzing consumers from a marketing management perspective and in using this knowledge to develop and evaluate marketing strategies. The text identifies three groups of concepts - affect and cognition, behaviour and the environment - and shows how these they influence each other as well as marketing strategy. The focus of the text is managerial, with a distinctive emphasis on strategic issues and problems. Cases and questions are included in each chapter.

This edition takes into account the research from Australia available through bodies such as ANZMAC and Australasian Marketing Journal. It provides an explanation of what consumer behaviour variables are and the types and importance of each.

Marketing Research provides comprehensive information on both the quantitative methods used in marketing research and the many considerations a manager faces when interpreting and using market research findings. Marketing research hot topics are featured, including competitive intelligence, published secondary data and the Internet, and marketing research suppliers and users. Each chapter helps you explore ethical dilemmas related to the topics discussed, the uses and needs for marketing research across business functions, and how to use the Internet to gather marketing research data in an efficient, cost-effective manner. By focusing on the managerial aspects of marketing research, this book provides you with both the tools to conduct marketing research, as well as those to interpret the results and use them effectively as a manager.

This book is a strategic look at consumer behavior in order to guide successful marketing activities. The Wheel of Consumer Analysis is the organizing factor in the book. The four major parts of the wheel are consumer affect and cognition, consumer behavior, consumer environment, and marketing strategy. Each of these components is the topic of one of the four major sections in the book.
